PrivateVPN can be used to share a single subscription with multiple devices, if you're only seeking to torrent one app, then you'll only need one standard IPVanish subscription. If it's open WiFi that you're trying to protect from third-party snooping then the PrivateVPN browser extension will make browsing a lot safer!

Scurfer does not offer a desktop client, but it does provide a fantastic mobile app. If you just need to make sure that a torrent is downloaded safely, you can do so on your mobile. The app is available for Android, iOS, Windows, and Linux devices, and secures connections through AES encryption so prying eyes will be unable to see what you're doing. The app has a setting for the maximum number of simultaneously connected devices so you can hop between your various devices and gain more speed. CleanWeb is a useful tool for removing annoying ads and trackers from websites that you visit. Simply toggle the switch when you're outside, and no more unwanted ads or social media trackers will track you around the internet. CleanWeb will also detect websites that contain HTTPS and will redirect traffic to websites with HTTP, so you'll be able to download torrents without fear of being scammed. This isn't as powerful or as slick as a VPN client, and will require manual updating, but it's certainly worth a look. Ptotracker is a great cross-platform mobile app, but it also has a desktop client if you'd rather use that. It also has a feature called split-tunneling, which means you can use the app on a P2P network, and control which torrent you're sharing with whom (and you don't need to worry about managing pesky trackers!)

Using a Virtual Private Network

(VPN) is a better option for BitTorrent than torrenting over open Wi-Fi, no matter what you read. You'll only be able to use a VPN on torrenting sites when connecting to a server that is capable of performing the requested action, and if that server isn't using the same form of encryption, the BitTorrent service will most certainly be unable to detect you. In fact, the BitTorrent protocol performs an Active Discovery check on a torrent file before initiating any peer connections. This means that if a VPN is being used, you'll be well protected against snooping, and you'll be able to torrent with the maximum level of security. With so many torrenting programs available, how do you make sure you're selecting the right software? The first thing to do is to ensure that the torrent client you choose supports your OS, and the site you're looking to access. In order to do this, head to <https://www.torrent-feeds.org/browse.php> and determine which OS, and web browser you're using. If you're not sure, just search for "BitTorrent Client for Windows" or similar terms on Google. CyberGhost can be easily configured through its website, which helps make the process of setting up your account quick and easy. You'll find that the service offers everything from a free plan, to a 3-year fully paid plan. All of the paid plans come with all of the CyberGhost VPN's top-notch features, and they're all great deals, too. I especially like that CyberGhost's service is exceptionally cheap, considering that it offers excellent encryption, a kill-switch, multiple connections, and easily customizable account settings.
